

Suppose that I told you...

there was a pill that would keep your heart strong, your mind sharp, and your body youthful well into your seventies, eighties, nineties, and even beyond? Suppose that I told you there was a pill that could extend your life and improve your sex life? Suppose I told you there was a pill that could prevent cancer? How about a pill that could keep your skin supple and wrinkle free?

Would you think that I was a victim of wishful thinking? A weird futurist dreaming about a drug yet to be discovered? I'm not. I am a serious mainstream scientist, and the pills I am talking about not only really exist but are readily available.

truths about antioxidants

WHAT ARE ANTIOXIDANTS ?

Antioxidants are vitamins, minerals and other nutrients found in food and also manufactured in our bodies to boost our immunity and keep us healthy.

There are hundreds of naturally occurring antioxidants. Some are produced in our bodies while others come from food.

Glutathione is one of the most powerful super-antioxidant produced naturally in our liver.

Thousands of scientific studies have confirmed their protective and healing properties to enable us to live longer healthier lives.

Keeping ourselves at an antioxidant advantage help ward off and prevent sickness and diseases associated with free radical damage like chronic degenerative diseases of the heart, eyes, liver and other organs as well as some forms of cancer.

Antioxidants work in our bodies to maintain health and keep us vigorous well into our later years. Therefore, remarkably improving the quality of our lives.

HOW ANTIOXIDANTS WORK WITH FREE RADICALS

Antioxidants are necessary to quench free radicals so that they cannot harm other cells.

When an antioxidant encounters a free radical, it engulfs it and combines to become a molecular structure. A relatively weak free radical that is not likely to do further harm.

THE NETWORK ANTIOXIDANTS

Within the body, there is a dynamic interplay between 5 key antioxidants: vitamin C and E, Co Q10, Lipoic Acid and Glutathione.

These are the network antioxidants.

These special antioxidants work together to boost and strengthen the entire biological system. When combined they greatly enhance the activity of one another, helping the body to maintain the right antioxidant balance.

In the Packer Lab, it was discovered that network antioxidants have special powers not shared with others. What make them special is that they can 'recycle' or regenerate, one another after they have quenched a free radical thereby vastly extending their antioxidative power.

- Free radicals are both an enemy and friend. Whenever there are diseases there are free radicals. But where there is life, there are also free radicals.
- Free radicals can be good where they help to boost our immune systems by destroying bacteria or viruses but can also be bad and damage our DNA.
- Free radicals damage our cells which hasten premature aging.
- Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, diabetes, cataract, arthritis, and many other ailments associated with aging are caused or aggravated by free radicals.

The key to good health is to maintain the right balance between antioxidants and free radicals. This is the job of the body's antioxidant defence network.

- Free radicals are unstable molecules produced during metabolism and energy production that can damage cell structures and can ultimately lead to cancer, heart disease and numerous other illnesses.
